Most kind is; but no one by himself
 Can grasp God.
 But where danger threatens
 That which saves from it also grows.
 In gloomy places dwell
 The eagles, and fearless over
 The chasm walk the sons of the Alps
 On bridges lightly built.
 Therefore, since round about are heaped, around clearness,
 The summits of Time,
 And the most loved live near, growing faint
 On mountains most separate,
 Give us innocent water,
 O pinions give us, with minds most faithful
 To cross over and to return.
